PRESIDENTS MESSAGE

Last month's annual wood auction was a huge success. We made over $3000 this year. We had a lot of nice wood, some tools, and some very nice art pieces. The bidding was pretty intense on some of those items. Probably the most amusing bidding was when we auctioned off four of our club members. I'm sure it must have felt a little odd for Howard to be auctioning off himself. But it worked – we sold him several times. I'd like to thank all of you who donated to or participated in the event. Special thanks to Howard – he did a great job as auctioneer.

This month our presenter will be by Michael Werner <http://www.handandmachine.com/> from Stanwood, Washington. Michael will be showing us some of his off-center turning. The challenge for October is to turn something from wood you purchased at the auction.

We will have nominations for club officers this month and elections at our November meeting. If you would like to nominate yourself or someone else for one of the offices, please contact me or David. We also have several service positions that we need to fill for next year: web master, video operator, and tape librarian.

It is not too early to start working on you contest entries for Cascade's submission the AAW "Turning 25 – A Celebration" <http://www.woodturner.org/sym/sym2011/Exhibit/>. We will have a $100 prize for the artist or artists whose entry is selected to represent Cascade at the 2011 symposium. We will select our entry at the February, 2011 meeting.

Safe turning,

Kathleen Duncan, President

THE WOODWORKING SHOW

Demonstrators are needed for the Woodworking Show in Portland on November 12-14, 2010. What a fun way to meet folks, talk wood, and have a great time hanging out w/the guys plus Kathleen. Call Ken Kirkman 360-687-9866 sooner than later. He is trying to wrap up the schedule by our October meeting so he can pass out the FREE tickets. Times are in 2 hr increments, but it is always negotiable. We are looking good Friday for set up and demonstrations. Demonstrators are needed for Saturday and Sunday, especially Sunday tear-down.

MONTHLY CHALLENGE

Bring your turnings made from wood you successfully bid at the September auction to the October meeting. There was a lot of wood carried home so this challenge should be well displayed.

The challenge winner for September was an Apple natural edged bowl by Bill Giffin. There were a number of well done pieces, all turned from wood that began with the letter A. Bills bowl was not only well done but the fruit woods can be difficult to turn.

GOOD WOOD WEBSITES

This month's wood web site is a demo of a Ringmaster to make a stacked ring Cherry vase. You can view it on http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=B8_RQGcxQZw . Stacked ring turnings are a good way to put your toe into the water of segmented turning. This video uses the somewhat expensive Ringmaster to produce the rings. It is an interesting and well filmed video but there are many less expensive ways to produce the ring components; band sawing half rings, scroll sawing whole rings and simply cutting the rings with a thin parting tool on the lathe. Look at the video and see if you have the urge to try one. Back "in the day" a well known turner that now concentrates on gallery grade Madrone bowls even made stacked ring turnings.

ORNAMENTAL TURNING SYMPOSIUM

This picture is of a spiral turning ornamental lathe that is slightly more complex than our typical Jet Mini and was shown at the September 17-19, 2010 Ornamental Turners International Symposium in San Jose, CA. Randy Rhine was one of the 80 turners and 22 guests attending from all over the world. If you have a curiosity about ornamental turning, as a number of Cascade's members have, take a look at www.ornamentalturers.org to see the variety of ornamental lathes, examples of turnings, membership information and instructions on how to build your own less complicated lathe. The next Symposium is in Scranton, PA in 2012.

CASCADE 14 YEARS AGO

Cascade Woodturners in October, 1996 was requesting nominees for the next month's election of officers and volunteers to man the club booth at the Woodworking Show at the Expo Center. Some things are a constant in this universe. The club was directed by Bill McCall as President, Dale Larson was VP, Jerry Ward was Secretary, Phil Collins was Treasurer and Laron Thompson was the Newsletter Editor. Bonnie Kline demonstrated making threaded boxes. Laron Thompson wrote an article on Chain Saw Tips.
